Upton Sinclair's The Journal of Arthur Stirling: The Valley of the Shadow is a compelling narrative that explores the intricacies of identity, memory, and social conscience within a broader historical framework. With its rich introspective style, Sinclair intertwines elements of realism and symbolism, offering readers a poignant glimpse into the life of Arthur Stirling against the backdrop of early 20th-century America. The book serves as both a reflection on personal struggles and a critique of the socio-political climate, encapsulating Sinclair's characteristic desire to stir the moral conscience of society through literature. Sinclair, an acclaimed author known for his progressive social activism, was deeply influenced by his early experiences with poverty and labor conditions in America. His commitment to social justice and reform is evident throughout his works, including the more famous The Jungle. In this lesser-known yet profound narrative, Sinclair's personal convictions and acute awareness of the human condition drive him to delve into the psychological ramifications of self-discovery, making Stirling's journey emblematic of broader human struggles. This book is highly recommended for readers seeking a nuanced exploration of personal and societal dilemmas through the lens of a master storyteller. Sinclair's blend of intimate reflection and social critique invites us to ponder the depths of our own identities while confronting the shadows of history. The Journal of Arthur Stirling promises to resonate with anyone interested in the intricate dance between the self and society.

In 1835, Alexis de Tocqueville famously called for a new political science that could address the problems and possibilities of a world itself quite new. For Tocqueville, the democratic world needed not just a new political science but also new arts of statesmanship and leadership. In this volume, Brian Danoff and Joseph Hebert Jr. have brought together a diverse set of essays revealing that Tocqueville's understanding of democratic statesmanship remains highly relevant today. The first chapter of the book is a new translation of Tocqueville's 1852 address to the Academy of Moral and Political Sciences, in which Tocqueville offers a profound exploration of the relationship between theory and practice and between statesmanship and political philosophy. Subsequent chapters explore the relationship between Tocqueville's ideas on statesmanship on the one hand and the ideas of Plato, Aristotle, Machiavelli, Montesquieu, the Puritans, the Framers of the U.S. Constitution, Oakeshott, Willa Cather, and the Second Vatican Council on the other. Timely and provocative, these essays show the relevance of Tocqueville's theory of statesmanship for thinking about such contemporary issues as the effects of NGOs on civic life, the powers of the American presidency, the place of the jury in a democratic polity, the role of religion in public life, the future of democracy in Europe, and the proper balance between liberalism and realism in foreign policy.

This volume of new essays focuses on the increasing relevance of intergenerational ethics to key challenges of the 21st century, such as climate change, rapid technological change the expanding human population and threats of extinction it features philosophers and political theorists of international standing providing a cutting edge perspective on these issues
